Forecasted Key Milestones:

Date of first availability of redesigned Product Change Notifications:	September 11, 2015
---	--------------------

Description of Change to the Customer:

Intel will be changing the layout of Product Change Notifications (PCNs). PCNs will now include the legal notification page as the last page of the PCN document – Seen as the first page in this PCN.

Intel has updated the layout of PCNs for efficiency purposes and to provide our customers the best possible user experience. This new layout enables customer to view the pertinent product change information first, such as, the PCN Title, Milestones, Description of Change, Customer Impact, etc. (see example below)

Page 1 of the updated PCN layout will include the specific information to the change notification.

Generic Product Discontinuance Notification example:

Description of Change to the Customer: Market demand for the products listed in the "Products Affected/Intel Ordering Codes" table below have shifted to other Intel products. The products identified in this notification will be discontinued and unavailable for a additional orders after the "Last Product Discontinuance Order Date" (see "Key Milestones" above).
Customer Impact of Change and Recommended Action: The products listed on the "Products Affected/Intel Ordering Codes" table should be managed in accordance to the "Key Milestones" listed above. "Demand To Local Intel Representative" date is the date your remaining demand for

Customer Impact of Change and Recommended Action:

The impact and benefit to users is reduced clicks and time spent searching through the PCN for the pertinent content of the change notification.

There is the possibility of Product Change Notifications being in-process prior to the redesign, therefore, although customers should be prepared to receive redesigned Product Change Notifications on this date, Intel will continue to publish and customers may continue to receive pre-redesigned PCNs until all of those notifications have been published.

Corporate Product Change Communications will continue to build the best user experiences Intel has to offer.
