Description of Change to the Customer:

Reason for Revision: Change in Firmware Version to 414E

The Intel Server RAID product SRCU42X is converting from a Leaded (Eutectic) Manufacturing Process to a Pb-Free manufacturing process and is supporting Intel's suppliers' conversion plan of removing lead from components.

Intel is driving this conversion to be aligned with the European Union legislation, which requires Restrictions on Hazardous Substances (RoHS) and bans lead after July 1, 2006.

The process and component changes have no impact on product form, fit or function. Intel has successfully completed our standard suite of Functional and Qualification testing and has achieved eutectic equivalence.

Update RAID controller firmware in the factory to 414E; update packaging; update CDA contents to include the latest drivers, utilities, and documentation; update the Attention Document with the current errata list.

Customer Impact of Change and Recommended Action:

These changes for RoHS are NOT expected to affect the Microsoft* Windows* operating systems or Linux* operating systems software driver stack. The changes for RoHS have been thoroughly evaluated to ensure that there is no quality, reliability or functional implications to our customers. Intel is not recommending additional qualification of these changes for RoHS on platforms received from Intel. Customers may wish to perform testing and update their documentation for the latest drivers, utilities and documentation.

There will be a change to Intel ordering codes for this product.
