Description of Change to the Customer:

The current blower used for the Intel(R) server systems SR1530CL and SR1530AH is being replaced due to excessive rotational vibration when blowers are running at full speed which has interference in some SATA drives causing performance degradation. The current blowers are being replaced with new blowers that have been tested by Intel. Test results of the new blower confirm reduced chassis vibrations, and therefore reduced performance degradation loss.

Intel anticipates no customer impact for this change. Evaluate when available.
